Senate Group Has Hearings on Crosser Issue

Insurance Interests Are Showing Fighting Spirit at Washington

WASHINGTON-A Senate labor

road retirement act. The first day was allotted to proponents of the legislation, the sec-ond day to the op-

E. J. Schmuck position.

The Howell subcommittee Wednesday, with but one dissenting vote, recommended the bill (HR 3150) to the full interstate commerce committee.

Pilling Gets Credit

Much credit for the resurrection of the bill to modify Crosser act benefits goes to Neville Pilling, U. S. manager of Zurich. He attended the famous House committee hearing that didn't come off—when Rep. Crosser resorted to gag tactics. This so infuriated Mr. Pilling and he was already so intensely devoted to the legislation that for the past several weeks he has given practically all of his waking hours to the cause of HR 3150. When others were ready to throw in the sponge Mr. Pilling became all the more determined to go ahead and he has provided the necessary spark. He has been at Washington days on end and has interviewed imporsary spark. He has been at Washington days on end and has interviewed important legislators at their homes over week ends. When he is at Chicago he is on the phone almost constantly in the interest of HR 3150.

Concluding its hearings Saturday, the House subcommittee heard Harry See, representing Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, say it has $160 million life coverage in force and has paid $150 million life to the state of the same state lion claims; this in addition to accident and health. Mr. See indicated his organization does not fear the effect of Crosser benefits upon the BRT insurance program. On the contrary, his position was that the Crosser insurance program and increased benefits would make brotherhood members more insurance conscious and interested in acquiring more protection.

Monday's witnesses at the Senate hearing included Dewey Dorsett, Assn. of Casualty & Surety Companies; Edward D. Brown, Chicago actuary; Edward J. Schmuck, National Assn. of Life Underwriters; Robert L. Hogg, American Life Convention; Seward H. Jacobi, Manager, social security department can Life Convention; Seward H. Jacobi, manager social security department, New Jersey chamber of commerce, on behalf of the social security committee of National Assn. of State Chambers of Commerce; Hugo Kuechenmeister, controller of Ed. Schuster & Co., Milwaukee, and James M. Souby, general solicitor Assn. of American Railroads.

Institute Pegs in Force Total at $180 Billion

Institute of Life Insurance estimates that life insurance in force has reached $180 billion, an increase of $6 billion in the first half of the year and $25 billion greater than at the end of the war. This protection is on the lives of more than 73 million people.

Despite a decrease in the second quarter, purchases of new insurance are at about the same level as last year with the six months' purchases estimated at about $10,500,000,000, practically the same as the first half of last year and one-half greater than in 1945. The Inone-half greater than in 1945. The In-stitute reports that group insurance pur-chases are three-fourths greater than in the first half of last year and more than twice the first half of 1945.

It is estimated that total assets are $50 billion, an increase of $2 billion since the first of the year and a gain of $3½ billion in the past 12 months.

Three-fourths of the total increase in assets represents financing business and industrial activities, with corporate bonds and real estate mortgages showing a net increase of more than $1,500,000,000. This a much larger portion of funds than had gone into these channels formerly.

The Institute gauges payment to policyholders and beneficiaries at $1,520,000,000 in the first six months, a rise of $70 million over last year. The rise in death benefits of one-third over 1941 reflects greater amounts in force and not increased death rates. Payments to living policyholders show an increase of 9% over last year and represents 55% of total payment.

A feature of the hearing was the questioning by Senator Ellender, Louisiana, of witnesses, as to whether they or their organization had done anything about the Crosser act while it was pending before Congress. Mr. Schmuck admitted: "I am afraid our association was caught napping early in 1946," when the Crosser

Mr. Hogg said his group made no opposition before congressional committees during the consideration of that bill.

"We took violent exception to the nonoccupational benefit provision," he said what the House committee reported the "but the House committee reported the bill without that provision, which was put in on the floor." Senate hearings were very brief last year.

Asleep at the Switch?

These statements were along the lines comment a year ago among insurance observers here that the insurance industry has been "asleep at the switch" while the Crosser bill was in process of being "put over" in Congress, until almost the last days of the fight, when it was too last days of the fight, when it was too late to organize opposition.

Mr. Brown brought out there are 500,000 former railroad employes who would be eligible for Crosser law benefits. Besides making a statement similar to that before the House committee, Mr. Brown gave examples of rates paid by railroad employes under various plans of coverage providing for sickness, accident and death benefits.

Mr. Dorsett made a statement similar to his before the House committee. Mr. Schmuck dwelt upon the need for integrating the various social security or

1946 Lapse Ratio Increase May Augur Harder Times

The ratio of ordinary and industrial lapses and surrenders to the average number of policies in force increased during 1946 for the second straight year, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. The 1946 ratio was 6.20% compared with 5.91% in 1945 and 5.30% in 1945. in 1944. The 1946 ratio was, however, lower than that for any year prior to

The ordinary life ratio of lapses and surrender was 2.70% compared with 2.19% in 1945 and a record low of 2.16% in 1944. Last year's industrial ratio was 8% as against 7.68% in 1945 and 6.76% in 1944, also the record low. The Institute notes the strong correlation between discontinuance of life policies and the rate of business activities. In both ordinary and industrial.

L.I.A.M.A. Plans Revision of Aptitude Index

The L.I.A.M.A. aptitude index for selection of agents is to undergo revision. Dr. S. R. Member companies during September will send all agent selection test forms of all kinds to the association. This will send all agent selection test forms of all kinds to the association. This study will include for the first time scores of men who are not hired.

After the test forms are received, the association will be able to provide comparative data on the test level of the group from which companies are drawing their agents. They also will be ing their agents. They also will be able to tell what proportion of high scoring men are being rejected and what propotion of low scoring men are being hired. Six months after the first returns are received, companies will be asked for production data on these men and a series of validation studies will be start-ed to enable the tests to be measured for the first time.

Pa. Governor Signs Five Insurance Measures

HARRISBURG — Gov. Duff has signed five legislative acts relating to insurance. One authorizes domestic insurance societies to invest in securities of the federal government and loan as-sociations and other institutions to the extent that such investment is guaranteed by the U. S. government. Another authorizes beneficial and protective societies to incorporate or reincorporate as limited life companies.

A bill permits certain additional stock companies to come within provisions of the state insurance laws of 1921. Another act changes the penalty for insurance companies failing to make financial recompanies failing to make financial re-ports to the state on schedule by climin-ating the flat $100-per-day fine for each day of delay, and substituting a maxi-mum fine of $100 for each day. The fifth bill establishes a $100 fee for re-listing of an examination for an agent who fails to appear for or pass a pre-viously listed examination.

BOSTON-Climaxing one of the largest and most successful annual meetings ever held, evidencing the growth of the organization and the increasing interest, the National Assn. of Accident & Health Underwriters at the closing session Wednesday adopted a new constitution. This was brought up to date to meet present day conditions resulting from the successful establishment of a headquarters office and the centralizing in it of various association activities.

The most important changes made were the elimination of proxy voting, the dropping of past presidents as votin members of the national council and doing away with mid-year meetings. Under the new setup, the executive board urged that local associations pay all or part of the expense of delegators are part of the expenses of delegates, so as to assure that all of them would be represented.

Minneapolis was selected for the next meeting. St. Louis also extended an invitation for next year and Milwaukee asked for the 1950 meeting.

Conrad J. Eliason, Monarch Life, Minneapolis, was elected chairman of the Leading Producers Round Table. He has been secretary the past year. Rolf R. Holl, Mutual Benefit H. & A., Kansas City, was named a new member of the executive committee. No secretary was elected, as the secretarial work now is to be taken over by the National headquarters office.

Details of the new plan were not announced but it was indicated it would apply to all Southwestern agents under contract three years.

The increase in limit of issue applies on ages 20-50, and the group life revision extends coverage to agents who have qualified for the Life Club 15 times, providing protection as of the agent's last qualification date.

New Policy Announced

A new policy was announced which provides monthly income for a beneficiary until the insured would have reached age 70. It is a low-cost plan providing larger amounts of monthly income. It was described by E. G. Brown, vice-president and actuary. He also announced that in the six-year interim since the company last held an agency convention, insurance in force had expanded more than $200 million, passing $600 million in May.

Commissioner Butler of Texas ad-

Commissioner Butler of Texas addressed the annual banquet of the Life Club at which James R. Wood, vice-president and general counsel, presented awards to agents for their 1946 production records. Among those recognized were John P. Costello, Dallas, trustee N.A.L.U., who last year led the company's field force with more than $6 million of new Southwestern Life business. He paid for more than $4 million in 1946 to become a qualifying and life member of the Million Dollar Round Table.

Companies Deluged | | () with Calls from "Ad" Agency Men

NEW YORK—As a result of drastic curtailments in the advertising appropriations of many widely advertised products, insurance advertising managers are finding themselves deluged products, insurance advertising managers are finding themselves deluged with calls from advertising agency representatives seeking a substitute for lost revenue. Thus far this intensive sales activity is not producing any great volume of new customers. The sales appeal is generally on the basis of the agency's fine service, its research facilities, etc.

Usually the company is well enough satisfied with the services of its present agency. What the seekers for new business seem to lack is new ideas, attractively presented, that appeal to the ad-tively presented, that appeal to the advertising managers. It is evident that many of the calls by agency representatives are motivated more by an urgent desire for additional business for the agency than by a thoroughgoing study of the prospective advertiser's problem and how to solve it.

Hubbard Takes McMoniale as Ida. Commissioner

James Hubbard, an agent for New York Life at Lewiston, has been ap-pointed Idaho commissioner to succeed Edward B. McMonigle. Mr. Hubbard had been endorsed at the recent meeting of the Idaho State Assn. of Life Under-writers. He has been an agent for 24 years in Pullman, Wash., and Lewiston and is a charter member of the Lewis-Clark association.

The legislature at its recent session changed the setup of the insurance department, making it an independent bureau under a commissioner. Here-tofore, it has been under the supervision of the commissioner of finance.

Signs Three Mich. Acts

LANSING, MICH.—Three acts of interest to the insurance industry have been signed by Gov. Sigler. One is the fair trade practice measure originally introduced with the three all-industry bills by Sen. Hamilton, Battle Creek agent and insurance committee chairman. Another act provides for a specific four-year term for the commissioner, modifying the present provision that the commissioner shall serve at the governor's pleasure. The third new act, not directed specifically at insurance busidirected specifically at insurance business but obviously affecting it, provides for registration and licensing of all legislative agents (lobbyists).

The A. M. A. Centennial

The American Medical Association (like the Penn Mutual) is holding a Centennial in 1947.

In the 100 years between 1847 and 1947 there has been extraordinary progress made throughout the medical world. The 100 years began with the introduction of chloroform and the discoveries of scientific aids followed rapidly. Early included were such discoveries as the hypodermic syringe, the ophthalmosocope, modern nursing, Pasteur's bacteriology. There became familiar such strange-sounding terms as gonococcus, streptococcus, staphylococcus, turbercle bacillus, antitoxins, x-ray, radium, hormones, vitamins, insulin, bronchoscope, gastroscope, electrocardiograph, shock treatment.

The members of the American Medical Association, now started on its second century, have before them many problems so far only touched upon. The medical field is still rich for development.

Agents Want More Company Publicity

In a survey conducted by Life Insurance Agency Management Assn. among 10,000 agents representing 20 companies, agents called for more company most agents called for more company advertising.

Agents of companies that conduct extensive advertising programs applauded the results upon the public. Agents of companies with light advertising campaigns were strong for expanded advertising. They particularly want local advertising. They want the company, the agent and the product better known. They want the concept of life insurance brought to the public by individual companies.

brought to the public by individual companies.

This was brought to light in a job satisfaction study. There was no question on company advertising. Yet, in reply to the question, "What could your Home Office do to improve your job and help you become more successful?" the admonition to advertise more ranked first among branch office companies and fourth among the companies having general agencies.

D. C. Life Insurance Bills Are Advanced

WASHINGTON—The Senate District of Columbia committee, who heard testimony last Thursday in support of three bills to amend the D.C. life insurthree bills to amend the D.C. life insurance act reported the measures favorably this week. The Kindleberger and Guertin bills have passed the House. The third bill is one to liberalize investment opportunities, particularly in the real estate and housing field.

The investment bill was explained by C. B. Hurd, Howard Kacy and Lloyd K. Crippen, Acacia Mutual, and Superintendent Jordan.

When Mr. Hurd was testifying Senator Buck, Delaware, subcommittee chairman, asked how much the companies would be handicapped if that whole section of the bill authorizing real estate investments were stricken out. "Why should the companies make such tate investments were stricken out.

"Why should the companies make such investments?" he inquired. "Are they regarded as sound investments? I knew life companies hold real estate mortgages, but didn't think they went into real estate ownership much."

Mr. Hurd replied the trend is definitely in that direction, "It's being done all over the country," citing Metropolitan life activities. "Life companies have been buying chain store buildings, such as Sears, Roebuck, and leasing them back to the chains." The witness cited Delaware laws covering life company investments. pany investments.

The bill as revised would limit real estate investment to 2% of assets within a year, and the total holdings to 5% of assets.

Jordan recommended the so-called Kindleberger bill, which provides that if the beneficiary of a life policy dies before the insured, the latter's estate shall have precedence over the beneficiary's estate in claiming the policy proceeds. In his opinion the appellate court here misconstrued the intent of the law in ruling otherwise. Inquiring about an appeal on the case to the Supreme Court, Senator Cain, Washington, was told it had been rejected.

Cain hazarded the suggestion that the D.C. court decision would probably affect thousands of policies all over the country, the decision being cited as a Iordan recommended the precedent.

Banks are concerned on account of the loan aspect.

The Guertin bill was subject of only brief hearing, in which Jordan and Mr. Crippen appeared. The committee was told substantially this bill has been passed in every state but Arizona and Oklahoma.

GERIATRICS: HELPING OLDER PEOPLE ENJOY LIFE LONGER

Longer life for people past 40

At the left above is a normal adult kidney. The odds are better than 200 to 1 that both of yours are in this same healthy condition.

The other is a kidney shrunken to about half normal size as a result of "Bright's disease"—the common term for any of several kidney ailments. As recently as 20 years ago these were hopelessly incurable. But modern treatment results in encouraging improvement and in a large percentage of cases the man or woman with kidney disease may enjoy many extra years of comfortable living.

A little over 100 years ago the English physician Richard Bright showed the connection between dropsy and diseased kidneys. The kidney studies of Bright and his associates marked the earliest recorded instance of joint research in medicine. A few years later physicians of the United States founded the American Medical Association, which is currently observing its 100th anniversary.

This century of medical progress, in which the AMA has played so stimulating a part, has radically im-proved the lot of man on earth at first through a sharp reduction in infant mortality, more recently through an increase in the life expectancy of older persons. In 1847 the man of 40 had already outlived his life expectancy. Today he can look forward to at least 30 more years of pleasure and accomplishment.

This brighter prospect for the middle-aged comes from geriatrics, the science of helping older people enjoy life longer. It has disarmed such oncefatal ailments as diabetes, heart disease, pernicious anemia and infections. It is fast finding the key to such others as cancer and the mental diseases.

Full enjoyment of these years calls for financial solvency, best attained through a sound program of savings and life insurance. Your NWNL agent, paid not primarily for how much insurance he sells you but for what you keep in force, has a strong interest to provide you with just the kind and amount of life insurance you need and can afford. He can help you plan wisely for a financially comfortable future through life insurance.

act will lead to further demands upon act will lead to further demands upon Congress for increased benefits, the cost of which will fall back upon the public. The life industry and agents feel very strongly against the discrimination set up by the Crosser act. "We favor equality of benefits for all citizens," he said.

Senator Ball asked Mr. Souby whether the railroads are required to carry work-mer's compensation for their employees.

men's compensation for their employes.

The witness replied that the federal employers' liability law applies to railroad workers in interstate commerce and that other railroad employes come in under state compensation laws.

Mr. Hogg denounced the Crosser act as an entering wedge for the government invading the field of private enterprise. He declared it is "usurpation" of private accident, health and sickness insurance; that non-occupational benefits are a social security problem.

Mr. Jacobi predicted the Crosser act will contribute to dissipation of reserve will contribute to dissipation of reserve funds. In the event of a national railway strike, he said, its effect would be to "subsidize" such a calamity. This witness told of abuses developing in the Rhode Island cash sickness indemnity system, the multiplicity of claims requiring a check-up which disclosed hundreds of fake claims for sicknuess benefits arising among the employee of a dreds of take claims for sicknuess benefits arising among the employes of a 15,000-worker concern going on strike. He said it would be impossible to make an adequate check on thousands of claims under the Crosser law arising all over the country.

Ladies Call the Turn

In Rhode Island, the witness said, many women obtained employment in anticipation of pregnancy, solely to obtain disability benefits. Maternity benefits there were 20% of benefits paid. After fits there were 20% of benefits paid. After 21,000 claimants were physically examined, Rhode Island sickness benefits were discontinued to 44% of them. Instead of increasing railroad employe benefits, he suggested, taxes should be reduced. Crosser-like legislation "constitutes an irresistible temptation to absenteeism under the guise of bona fide illness or disability." The difficulties experienced in Rhode Island administration among 250,000 workers in a small area would be much greater with five times as many railroad employes all over the country.

the country.

Mr. Kuechenmeister urged repeal of cash sickness and disability benefits un-ash sickness and disability benefits under the Crosser bill.

The House committee hearings were divided a day and a half to each side. The great interest on the part of the committee in the bill was indicated by the presence of Chairman Wolverton of the full committee serving with the subcommittee headed by Rep. Howell, Illinois, in charge of the legislation.

Thomas Stack, president Railroad Employes Pension Protective Assn. Committee, Chicago, took only a few minutes in support of HR 3150, to tell the committee that 400,000 names were on file with Speaker of the House Martin in support of the proposal. He declared railroad employes are accustomed to buy their own insurance and realized clared railroad employes are accustomed to buy their own insurance and realized they "cannot get anything for nothing."

R. J. Wetterlund, Washington National, and O. J. Breidenbaugh, executive secretary National Assn. of A. & H. Underwriters, did not appear at the hearing, although listed.

First witness in opposition to the bill was Lester P. Schoene, representing Railway Labor Executives Assn., which is an employes organization.

Exploiting Misfortunes

"Lawyers, doctors, insurance companies, etc., make a living exploiting the misfortunes of others," he asserted. "It ill behooves us to oppose alleviation of misfortunes simply to protect our traffic in the misfortune of others. It would be misfortunes simply to protect our traffic in the misfortune of others. It would be shocking for insurance companies to oppose the development of safety measures for fear it might cut down on the accident insurance business.

"Mr. Brown's figures on number of railroad workers insured are ridiculous on their face. In compiling these figures he did not know and had no way of knowing where each certificate holder was employed in 1946 and could not arrive at a reliable figure. Perhaps the figure on the number of certificates then in force did represent persons who at the time the insurance was written were employed by railroads, but this does not necessarily mean that they are still in the employ of the railroads.

"Mr. Brown also cited the figures on number of railroad employes at end of 1946 as 1,300,000. The railroad retirement board's figures show that during 1946 there were 2,600,000 employes—just double Mr. Brown's figure. Also his figures do not take into account possible duplications where individuals who are members of relief associations are also insured with health and accident companies.

"According to a social security board

study, one-third of the health and accistudy, one-third of the health and accident insurance, including group, was written by mutual insurance companies. It was also shown that the largest single item was group insurance. If group insurance is excluded from the total in would be a fair inference that a very large proportion of what remains is written by mutual companies.

written by mutual companies.

"Operations of mutual companies, according to Statistical Abstract of U.S., p. 443, show: Mutual health and accident certificates issued in 1944 3,509,000; labor, force, average 52,600,000.

"Certificates in force by mutuals was about 6% of the labor force. That does not take into account certificates written have other than mutuals and does not about 6% of the labor force. That does not take into account certificates written by other than mutuals and does not take into account how many of the 3 million represented persons not in the labor force. One probably offsets the other. It is, therefore, probable that 6 to 8% of number of railroad workers insured is more likely than the 35% quoted by Mr. Brown.

"Also, such insurance is not adequate as is shown by the fact that during the seven years 1938-1944, mutual companies wrote about three times as many certificates as they had in force at the end of the period indicating that there was a large discontinuance of the insurance. I do not know the reason for the high rate of discontinuance but can make some inference from the study by the social security board already referred to. Their report contains a separate classification for what are known as franchise companies—that is, companies who are given a franchise to solicit insurance on the property of a company from the employes. This report covers 11 companies. I do not know whether they were the same companies included in the 12 in Mr. Brown's port covers 11 companies. I do not know whether they were the same companies included in the 12 in Mr. Brown's study, but there is probably substantial identity between the two groups.

"Nine of these 11 companies had an expense to premium ratio of 53%. Of that 53%, from 66% to 69% was selling expense. In other words, a railroad employe buying their insurance—half his money goes to paying operating expenses and two-thirds of the operating expense is the cost of selling him the insurance. Companies operating with such expense ratios and such selling costs cannot furnish adequate protection. "Railroad unemployment insurance act costs cannot furnish adequate protection. "Railroad unemployment insurance act provisions will probably stimulate increased private insurance among railroad workers. (Citing what happened during world war I after establishment of government insurance for service men.) I predict that the insurance companies asking you to repeal those provisions will lose the greatest stimulus to their business they have ever had."

Pa. Legislative Situation

HARRISBURG, PA. — Legislation approved by the senate to outlaw the practice of labor unions writing group insurance for their members with premium funds contributed by employers to the unions, was killed in the house prior to final adjournment.

J. L. McDevitt, president Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, has asked Gov. Duff to veto the bill which would authorize group life insurance for employes of two or more employers under policies issued to trustees. He said it would create difficulties in connection with such group policies that are obwith such group policies that are obtained by collective bargaining between unions and employers because of the "vague and indifferent language of the proposal."

A senate-approved bill to permit two or more employers to combine for group life and group accident and health insurance and establish trust funds has been passed by the house and sent to the governor for his signature.

Mutual.

It was decided to hold the annual field day June 27, at Oakmont Country Club. George A. Sattem, manager Mutual Life, spoke on "What Does a Supervisor Need to Learn in Order to Become a Geneal Agent or Manager?"

Professional — Or Quack?

What is the mark of the professional man-is it the fact that he arrives at the office at 9:30, takes two hours for lunch, spends an afternoon a week on the golf course?

If these are characteristics at all, they are purely inci-dental. The real essence of the professional man is that he directs his own activities in a field of vital importance to the community, for which he fits himself by constant study and research.

The life underwriter aspiring to the professional level who overlooks the last item will miss his mark a thousand miles. Because of the constantly evolving nature of the life insurance business, nothing short of a continuous program of personal study will qualify the underwriter in the field as a proper advisor to all who need his services.

The uniformly high quality of all life insurance companies, too, places the burden of competition squarely on the shoulders of the individual fieldman. If he is truly a professional man he will see to it that he is well prepared to meet the challenge.

A resolution urging passage of the Hawkes bill, S. 670, and the Howell bill, HR. 3150, was adopted at the first session after E. H. O'Connor, Insurance Economics Society, had outlined the situation in Washington in connection with the Crosser bill repeal. He reviewed the effect of the Crosser bill on the accident and health business and the nation's economy and said that its the action's economy and said that its "discriminatory treatment of one class of employes sets a vicious pattern which complicates the future of the social security program." He also pointed out that private companies now have 950,000 of the 1,350,000 insured, providing sickness and accident benefits, and a large percentage of the employes also have hospitalization and surgical benefits for themselves and their dependents.

SUPERIOR SERVICE on Group Insurance

Through our wide variety of group plans alert employers are provided opportunity to make available to their employees lowcost life insurance, retirement annuities, hospital and surgical insurance and accident and sickness benefits.

Life of Virginia was a pioneer in making group services available to firms having as few as twentyfive employees (state laws permitting). These services are offered on the same rate basis as larger cases.

chusetts in his talk at the opening session said accident and health men should be justly proud of the accom-plishments of their business, but that they must be sure it is conducted with full regard for the interests of policyholders and their beneficiaries, so as to combat successfully the encroachment of government in the field of insurance, which he cited the Crosser bill as example.

He referred to certain practices in the accident and health field, to suggest that: "You determine the extent to which such practices prevail in your business." He said accident and health companies are entitled to a reasonable profit but should be concerned about forms which practices are restituted. profit but should be concerned about forms which produce an excessive profit. Conversely, in the interest of solvency, inadequate premiums should be adjusted. He criticised a practice which he referred to as "underwriting the business when a claim is reported," where a policy is issued without investigation of statements in the application but if any inaccuracy is discovered, the questions of the property of the property of the profit of the prof any inaccuracy is discovered, the ques-tion is raised at the time of claim.

He said the general acceptance of group insurance has done much to overcome sales resistance and questions are following up tioned whether agents are following up the sales opportunities it presents as thoroughly as they should. He also urged, in view of the temporary nature of group insurance, consideration of ways and means of continuing insurance sold on a wholesale basis.

Knight Veteran in Business

Gilbert H. Knight, Federal Life & Casualty, Cleveland, who takes over the helm of the National association, oper-ates one of the largest agencies in the country in point of premium volume. In addition to his business in Cleveland, he has charge of the sale in many states of special policies which he de-signed himself. During the depression years of the 1930's he made a record of 140 consecutive monthly increases in business and premiums in force. Born and educated in England, he entered in-surance work in Canada at the age of 18. After much field and home experience in both accident and health and life fields, he started building his present agency in Cleveland in 1924.

Mr. Knight always has been interested in association work. In 1913 he helped form the Cleveland Accident & Health Club, the first of its kind in the United States, which has met regularly for 34 years. He also has been active in the National association for many years. He has been in great demand as a speaker and is the author of a book "You Too Can Sell Insurance — If", which has had a heavy sale and is very highly regarded.

Smith Lauds New Constitution

R. B. Smith, Great Northern Life, Oklahoma City, retiring president, in his address at the opening session gave special praise to the committee which prepared the new streamlined constituprepared the new streamlined constitu-tion. He emphasized that it eliminates all possibility of any one group of past officers ever constituting a bloc or fac-tion that could control the association and also provides that no particular group could ever legislate the affairs of the association or elect officers by a proxy system. It is also felt that a mid-year meeting is no longer precessary and year meeting is no longer necessary and in its place it is recommended that state or regional sales congresses be held at strategic points.

Mr. Smith emphasized the importance of public relations and cited the recent comment of Commissioner Kavanaugh of Colorado that the only kind of public relations job he understands is a company that pays its claims justly and promptly every day. He questioned promptly every day. He questioned whether there is any other business that has the facilities for exerting sound influence on the public that personal insurance has

He commented especially on the increased educational activity of the association and said that when the Purdue accident and health course was first started there were many who were skeptical, dubious, and questioned either started the necessity or the possible results. In his recommendations for the coming year, Mr. Smith urged that more emphasis be placed on the activities of the Leading Producers Round Table. The speakers bureau is now in a position for the first time to provide any kind of program, speaker, or group of speakers which may be needed for a sales conference or association meeting.

He stressed very strongly the importance of placing producing agents on the board or executive committee of local association also wants to encourage the election of soliciting agents as association officers.

Field Men Point of Impact

The part that the field men, individually as well as collectively, can and should play in public relations work for accident and health insurance was outlined by Clyde W. Young, president of Monarch Life, speaking on "The Importance of YOU."

But and in some cases a little more. But they do not know what it is that makes our business tick. They do not know the value of your services, and they do not understand the basic fundamentals of what they are buying, or how what they have bought works for them and for the good of our economy. If they did, there would be absolutely no sup-port whatever for the various schemes which are now being presented to re-duce large sections of our industry to government control and monopoly. Second, to satisfy the public yearning for full information and advice about the quality service you sell so that they will always be alive to how much your service means to them and their dependents."

said. "You can apply it where it will said. "You can apply it where it will do the most lasting good and you can guide its application into those channels where it will be most effective. Equally important, you can grasp errors in application in the very beginning and you can suggest changes which will benefit and improve the over-all program itself. This is a most important aspect because changes will undoubt-edly be made and improvements most certainly should come with the passage of time. Mr. Drury spoke and introduced the new president, Mr. Kreder, who said that the watchword in life insurance to-and fight as the requisites for the career agent.

He cited figures from one company which found that of every $100,000 written, one-half was on policyholders, and $16,000 on the immediate families of these policyholders, a total of 81%.

Fred H. White, Connecticut Mutual, Buffalo, recommended getting referred leads from policyholders. He stressed the value of a Dun & Bradstreet report on a man's business in advance to avoid wasting time, and to use the report in suggesting an appropriate policy amount. One thing he suggests to policyholders One thing he suggests to policyholders is to open a bank account he supervises and uses to handle premium payments.

Ackiss Tells How

Ackiss Tells How

Collis L. Ackiss, Metropolitan, Norfolk, Va., said that even the smallest cases provide him an opportunity for sales of ordinary by applying a good program to the individual case. His basic rule is to try to insure the prospect for five time his annual wage.

At the final luncheon, Judd C. Benson, Union Central manager, Cincinnati, told the agents they should continue to study and maintain a fresh viewpoint. Think big and sell big, he said. The agent should be proud of what he is doing.

He advised agents not to try to sell a prospect a policy in an amount approximtely that of the policy they hold personally, Appraise the man and sell him what he needs, not what you have yourself, he said.

self, he said.

BYPASSING THE AGENT

William P. Worthington, agency vicepresident, Home Life of New York, who was the principal speaker at the banquet, cited the present trend toward mass selling which bypasses the agent. He said if it is allowed to get out of bounds it will be extremely dangerous to the American agency system.

"I am opposed to companies trying to enter a mass selling field on the subterfuge of reducing the cost of insurance by selling direct from company to client without commissions to individual underwriters," he said. He added that he was not criticising any one company.

Mr. Worthington said that mass selling and the growth of state savings bank insurance represented competition on an unfair basis to the agent. Mortgage plans are being sold by some companies in this way and he asked what was to prevent companies from selling group and retirement plans in the same manner. All of these eat into the market of

ner. All of these eat into the market of the agent. He told the agents that to beat this competition they had to give better service to the policyholder than any savings bank over-the-counter or home office-to-policyowner method could offer. The agent is as important to the client as is the client's doctor or lawyer and only a smart agent can prescribe the right insurance policy.

Prior Claim Disallowed

Judge Miner at Chicago last week, made a ruling that policyholders of the old Illinois Bankers Life Assn. who converted to permanent insurance with converted to permanent insurance with the successor stock company, do not have a prior claim in connection with the judgment whereunder capital stock of Illinois Bankers was awarded to those who were policyholders of the assessment company in 1929. In be-half of those that had converted, it was argued that they were entitled to a prior claim because in converting, they had been required to pay an extra year's premium amounting to some $520,000. $520,000.

What was wanted in their behalf was a specific money payment before any other distribution should take place. However, Judge Miner has now ruled that all policyholders that are the successful claimants for the stock stand in the same shoes.

Prudential May Bid for Huge WAA Plant at Lockland, O.

CINCINNATI — With the appointment of the R. A. Cline real estate organization to negotiate with prospective tenants for occupancy of the Wright aviation plant at Lockland, O., it has become known that Prudential is subbecome known that Prudential is submitting a bid for the 5,600,000 square foot plant to War Assets Administration. The Cline company will submit a bid on behalf of Prudential providing a certain portion of the plant can be placed under lease prior to submission of the bid, the deadline for which is Aug. 1. Many industries have evidenced interest in a portion of the plant, but its size has prevented a single firm or individual from bidding on the plant as a vidual from bidding on the plant as a unit. It is believed that the entrance of Prudential into the field marks the first time an insurance company has made an investment of this type under the liberalized investment laws enacted in a number of states.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Beware of Initialed Letters

The other day we got a statistical thoroughly. inquiry form returned from one of the very largest insurance companies in the land, initialed by eight of the executives. Our freshman statistician discovered that it was the most completely garbled bunch of figures of the season. He referred it to our sophomore actuary who shook his head but said it must be ok with so many initials, but he passed it on to our decrepit mathematician who is beyond being awed by initials, and he that the wise men had muffed it very beware of initialed letters.

This incident we reported to our old reference point, the cynical actuary, and he said he had learned the lesson many years ago. Whenever he gets anything with a lot of initials on it he gets very suspicious and often finds a bug in it. He puts much more store in a communication from just one person without a lot of initialed embroidery.

Perhaps we could go on from here and make an editorial out of this, but confirmed the opinion of the freshman the one thing we can say positively is

Protection for the Living

There is no life insurance company. we believe, which failed realistically to face the consequences of the "noble experiment" of the income disability clause. The worst is over now! We are over the hump and going down hill comfortably, if still expensively. The final chapwill not be written, however, until all income disability clauses have expired by lapse, surrender, death of the insured or his attainment of the age limit. There will be graphic reminders of the income disability experiment until 1970.

No person or institution familiar with the history of that experiment has the slightest desire to risk repetition of its are inescapable.

Loss of earning capacity through illness or accident is temporary or permanent economic death of the individual. It continues to entail suffering by those who are dependent upon him. Furthermore, 80% of our population is urban now and almost wholly dependent upon earned dollar income for its livelihood. The other 20%-rural population-is far more dependent on cash income than ever before.

Protection for the living is not complete so long as it does not include the great and growing hazard of economic death which is even worse than physical death.

cultural development of Salt Lake and Utah.

In 1897 he became associated with the Intermountain branch of New York Life and maintained that association until his death. In 1910, at the convention of National Assn. of Life Underwriters at Detroit, he was elected vice-president with Henry J. Powell of Louisville, the choice for president. The following year, at the Chicago convention, he was nominated for president, but because of other duties demanding his attention, he was forced to decline the nomination. He organized Utah Assn. of Life Underwriters, and served as its first president. That was in 1905. In 1909 he succeeded in establishing a state insurance department, and secured the enactment of insurance laws. Salt Lake Opera Co. and the Evan Stephens Grand Opera Co. were organized with his help and sponsorship. He acted as president and manager of these organizations and assumed roles in more than 75 plays and nerformances.

JASPER, ALTA.-Life insurance is JASPER, ALTA.—Life insurance is a most essential agency in our democratic system, H. W. Manning, vice-president and managing director of Great-West Life told nearly 500 delegates at the company's 1947 convention in session here at Jasper Park lodge.

The four-day convention is the largest at this famed Rocky Mountain resort in five years with more than 600 men and women from all parts of Canada and many parts of the U. S. in attendance.

and many parts of the U. S. in attendance.

"It is significant," Mr. Manning told the opening business session, "that in the two most stable, most prosperous countries in the world—Canada and the U. S.—where the standard of living is the highest, that on the continent which may prove to be the keystone of world peace, life insurance has become a most important factor in the economic, social and national life of the people. To the extent to which we carry life insurance to the peoples of this continent we will contribute substantially to the basic principles of freedom and peace."

Mr. Manning emphasized "the unique record of Canadian legal reserve life insurance companies whose policy holders have never lost a dollar through non-payment of the amount guaranteed under their policies on death or at maturity."

John Marshall Holcombe, Jr., managing director of L.I.A.M.A., said that the distribution problems of American business are not the problems of the life insurance business. "The public which now knows more about life insurance than it ever has before will no longer accept poorly trained agents. It is going to be a case of the mediocre agent getting out of the business before the public throws him out, but if you have the right qualifications the future is indeed rosy.

"The well-prepared agent uncovers needs of which his prospect is only dimly aware—if at all—and then prescribes the only remedy—life insurance. The agent of the future will be a professional agent because he will look at everything from the point of view of his client."

Why not treat yourself to a vacation in Tennessee this summer?

If you're a fisherman, you can fish to your heart's content ... in the innumerable streams and lakes we have in Tennessee.

If you just like to drive and feast your soul on pretty things, Tennessee has them all, from the delta cotton fields on the west to the Great Smoky Mountains on the east.

Or, if you just like to loaf, there are special places for loafing, with country ham, hot biscuits, and all the trimmings.

And, if you do come to Tennessee, be sure and drop in on us.

$1814 MILLION MORTGAGE

In connection with the transfer by Marshall Field of the Field building, Chicago, to a trust for the benefit of Field Foundation, Inc., a mortgage of $18½ million was placed with Prudential. This is the largest mortgage that was ever placed in Chicago on a single building, and is second nationally only to the mortgage covering the Radio City development at New York.

The proceeds of the mortgage are being paid to Mr. Field, who is publisher of the Chicago "Sun." The difference between the mortgage and the appraisal value was transferred to the Field Foundation. This amount was not disclosed. The mortgage is payable over a period of 20 years in quarterly installments of $254,375 with interest in note.

ACCIDENT AND HEALTH

John Marshall Ins. Co. Awakens Doctors' Interest

The magazine "Medical Economics" carries an article boosting John Marshall Ins. Co. of Chicago under the caption "Health Insurance—A New Package."

tion "Health Insurance—A New Package."

This article credits John Marshall with offering a "uniform national contract" which is designed to appeal to national employers impatient with variations from state to state in non-profit plans. Also John Marshall is credited as being the only commercial insurer that uses the service principle of paying for semi-private hospital care bills in full with no cash limitation. It covers chronic and pre-existing conditions, tuberculous and nervous and mental diseases. Mention is made of the fact that John R. Mannix, president of John Marshall, is a former Blue Cross leader as are many of those associated with as are many of those associated with as are many of those associated whim.

Mr. Mannix was quoted as saying that non-profit health insurance has restricted its scope unnecessarily. It is making needless demands on doctors, hospitals and the public. Also he said there is a serious gap between local and retical plans.

there is a serious gap between local and national plans.

According to this article, John Marshall started selling contracts last Dec. 1 and its objective is an enrollment of 200,000 by the end of this year.

John Marshall expects soon to cover dental care and provide cash indemnity features. According to the article, four state medical societies are now pondering whether to sponsor the health care plan of John Marshall.

New Mass. Law Permits Cities to Buy Athletic Cover

An amendment to the Massachusetts general laws, signed by Governor Bradford, permits cities and towns of the state to provide insurance for payment of medical, hospital and surgical expenses for injuries incurred by public school students participating in athletics. Previously, athletic associations or school athletic departments were liable for such payments.

for such payments.

The Medford school committee has voted to accept bids from companies willing to write high school male and female athletes under a general policy.

May Transfer "Week" Funds

Members of the general committee in charge of Accident & Health Insurance Week when that activity was suspended a number of years ago have been circularized in regard to a proposal to transfer the funds that were on hand when its work was discontinued to the re-cently organized Disability Insurance Joint Committee, representing the Na-tional Assn. of Accident & Health Underwriters and company groups. That committee has plans under way to make a survey of sales potentialities in the accident and health field and it is suggested that these funds be used for that purpose. No opposition to the carrying out of this proposal is expected.

COMPANIES

N. W. National Increases Capital to $2,200,000

The directors of Northwestern Na-The directors of Northwestern National Life have voted to increase the par value of the capital stock from $7.50 to $10 a share which increases its capitalization from $1,650,000 to $2,200,000. This was effected by transferring $550,000 from surplus of the stock departments. 000 from surplus of the stock department to capital account, thereby increasing the permanent cushion of safety for policyholders in both the mutual and stock departments in line with the company's growth, according to O. J. Arnold, president. No increase in the amount of dividend per share of stock is contemplated at this time regardless of the increase in par value, Mr. Arnold said.

FRATERNALS

Fraternal Reserves Call for Conservatism; Dineen

BUFFALO-The need for conservatism in fixing reserves for fraternal societies was stressed by Superintendent Dineen of New York in his talk before Dineen of New York in his talk before the annual meeting of Protected Home Circle here. He praised the 1946 law which requires fraternals to accumulate within seven years an additional contingency reserve equal to the difference between 3½% reserves and the actual reserves maintained on certificates valued at assumptions exceeding 3½%. However, this requirement should not However, this requirement should not be regarded as a cure-all, he said. The tendency of actuaries to make present interest assumptions at various figures ranging downward from 3% must be heeded, he warned. While it will be a genuine accomplishment to place old reserves on a 3½% basis over a seven-year period "we must necessarily keep alert to interest trends and be prepared to take such conservative action as may to take such conservative action as may be needed," he said. He also mentioned the careful management that is needed to keep expenses within the loadings, during these days of rising expenses.

HAVE YOU HEARD WHAT HAPPENED TO THE GLENNS?

The story of a typical American Farm Family

M IDWEST, U.S.A. A very special check has arrived at a little farm not far away — the first of a long series — and that check, and all the ones to follow, is a wonderful example of a man's love and foresight.

It all began several years ago. The farmer's name was Glenn and he was very proud of that farm of his. He'd worked and improved it faithfully year after year.

Glenn was a good family man, too. He had five children and plenty of dreams for their future and education.

In every way, the Glenns were a typical American farm family, loving the soil, the home and the children.

Mr. Glenn did a very smart thing. He fixed things so that neither he, if he lived, nor his family, if he died, would ever be poor.

Yes — with life insurance — through the Northwestern Mutual.

How Glenn managed this security

"You see," said the Northwestern Mutual agent, "you set aside life insurance money to protect your loved ones, to make sure that your farm remains in your family's hands if you should die, but all the time the cash value of your policy is increasing. If hard times come, you can borrow money on that cash value and still keep the policy in force. A good many people overlook that part of life insurance."

So, Mr. Glenn took the Northwestern Mutual plan and found that the dividends reduced the premiums considerably — and that the cash value of the policy was a growing and valuable reserve fund.

Then, just 5 years after the plan was started, Mr. Glenn died, and the Northwestern Mutual agent delivered the first of a series of monthly income checks to Mrs. Glenn, checks that will come to her as long as she lives. They will enable her to be with her five children, to keep the farm and to help hire a hand until the Glenn boys can take over.

By all means see the Northwestern Mutual agent when he calls. Ask him to show you the significant difference between life insurance companies — a difference that meant a great deal to the Glenns.

In the meantime, send the coupon below for a copy of the new booklet called, "The Crop that never Fails."
